DR. LEACOCK BEFORE MED. UNDERGRADS

Large Audience Greet Eminent Humorist.

REPORT OF DANCE

Witty Presentation of the "Lighter Side of Life."

"The Lighter Side of Life" was the theme and pervading spirit of Dr. Stephen Leacock's address before the Medical Undergraduate Society last night. There was a record turnout of students and from the time that the eminent humorist rose to address the audience until he resumed his seat, they were kept in gales of laughter by the witticisms and reminiscences which Prof. Leacock delivered in his unique manner. This is the first time that the Medical Undergraduates have had the pleasure of hearing Dr. Leacock and, judging from the storms of applause last night, they fully appreciated the honor.

The speaker began by saying that though he went under the title of "Doctor," he could lay no claim to being the "right kind of a doctor," a fact which he greatly regretted on his first and only "case." There are a great many troubles in present day life. Contrasted with the world of 40 years ago, the tendency of the present generation seems to be towards too strenuous effort; and striving after success, one loses some of the good things of life. However, it is not for the young practitioner to slacken his pace. In the words of the speaker, "When you are as comfortably fixed as I am, when you can boast my years, then is the time to become light in heart, and peace will be yours."

Following some humorous remarks on Education, past and present, the speaker dwelt on the attitude of the modern world towards morality. Nowadays there is too much censorship, and as a consequence, individual freedom and judgment is lost under the dictation of a few masters of morals. In the old days there were less laws and more morality.

Prof. Leacock's account of college life in his undergraduate days was most interesting, and the students received with hearty applause his statement that the modern college professor has lost the spirit of kindness which characterized his dignified and bewhiskered predecessor.

The address last night contained a great deal of sound advice, veiled as it was under the guise of humour, and it was a most entertaining and profitable evening for those who were fortunate enough to be present. In the vote of thanks to the speaker the hope was expressed that this would not be his last appearance before the Medical Undergraduates.

The business of the meeting was concerned with the report of the Medical Dance Committee, and four men were appointed to audit the expense accounts of the Dance and Dinner held lately.

MOST IMPORTANT MEETING OF YEAR

Union Members Meeting Following Society Meeting.

As customary, all lectures will be cancelled to-morrow morning, when the last and most important meeting of the Students' Society takes place. The meeting will be held in the main hall of the Union at ten o'clock.

The new officers of the various positions recently voted upon, will be introduced to the students.

The nominations and elections for the positions of vice-president and secretary of the football, hockey and track clubs will take place.

A full account of the expenditures, etc., of the Students' Society will be submitted to the students in general.

The estimates, costs and reports on all activities of the different major athletic societies for the past year will be given.

Following the usual schedule, any matters pertaining to the University can be broached by any student.

The officers of the Union will take charge of proceedings at the close of the Society's meeting.

THE ANNUAL MEETING OF S.C.A. HELD

Last Night at Strathcona Hall at 7.30.

ATTENDANCE OF 40.

New President Elected in Person of H. R. C. Avison

The first annual meeting of the Students' Christian Association of McGill was held last night in Strathcona Hall. There was an attendance of about 40 members. The meeting was opened with a short prayer by J. W. Clarke. The minutes of the last annual meeting—which was the last meeting of the McGill Y.M.C.A.—were read by the secretary, Vance Read. These minutes were adopted as read.

One of the main items of business was the report of the retiring president, E. C. Amaron. He made a very interesting and full report in his inimitable manner, of the various activities of the Association during the past year. Amaron outlined in brief the work done by the various committees and paid fitting tribute to the men who have put in hard work during the busy season. The Association has done valuable work in many fields of student activity, although it is done quietly and is not always appreciated. Amaron said that the year's work showed the strength and weakness of past methods, and that the coming year should remedy these mistakes. His report was very favorably received by the meeting, delivered as it was in a clear and concise manner by an able man.

Following the president, committee reports were heard as follows:

Membership—Gordon Stephens.
Bible Study—H. R. C. Avison.
Hospitality—N. Egerton.
Meetings—L. K. Anderson.
Finance—T. G. Browne.
Conference—C. F. Davis.
Social Service—H. F. Hall.
Publicity—G. A. C. Roberts.

Other committees not heard from were the Social and House Committees.

After the reading of reports the election of the new president and board of directors took place. For president there were two men nominated in the persons of H. R. C. Avison and A. T. Lloyd. Avison, with the Association for four years, who has been very closely connected and has done a great deal of hard work, was elected president. The election of the new board of directors took place, and the following were chosen:

Bieler, Bronson, R. F. Ogilvy, Egerton, Stewart, Read, J. Ross, A. S. Ross, Amaron, C. F. Davis, Robertson, Lloyd and Mitchell.

ARTS BANQUET TO BE GREAT AFFAIR

Very Best Speakers and Splendid Dinner at the Ritz.

The annual dinner of the Arts Undergraduate Society is to be held in the Ritz Grill on Thursday night. Although it is fairly late in the season, a large number are supporting the dinner, and everything points to the fact that it will be a splendid party.

The very best speakers among the faculty and students have been secured. The chief attraction without a doubt will be the speech by Dean Laing. This will be the Dean's first appearance before the Arts faculty, as a whole. He has already spoken to several undergraduate societies, and has made a great impression. The Dean is a big man in the highest sense of the word. He is a man of sterling character and most eminent scholar, and a very fluent and interesting speaker. To anyone who has had the privilege of meeting the Dean it is not necessary to say anything about him, but many have not yet met him or heard him, and this is a glorious opportunity. The other speakers on the toast list include Dr. Stephen Leacock and Prof. Rene du Roure. Neither of these men need any introduction to the Arts students. It may be said here that Prof. du Roure will speak in his native language, and will lend that splendid atmosphere of bilingualism peculiar to McGill among the Universities of the continent.

THE JUNIOR TEAM.

The Junior hockey team will play its last game of the season to-night, when it meets the strong Aura Lee Junior team, in Toronto, to decide the junior championship of Eastern Canada. The work of the juniors is apt to be overlooked during the height of the athletic season when the mass of senior teams are providing competitions that interest the students. However, the third team this year has gained an enviable reputation as far as good clean hockey and the number of victories are concerned.

They have succeeded in winning the championship of their league, and later getting the junior championship of the city. In the play-off games for both of the championships they had strong teams to meet, but in every case they showed plainly that they were the stronger team.

This evening they will have the hardest game of the year to play. The Aura Lee team, although under the age limit of twenty years, all fully grown men. The average weight of their team is one hundred and sixty pounds, while one of their players weighs two hundred pounds. Against such an aggregation of players, McGill will have a difficult task to win, but they will at least work their hardest, and that is all that is ever asked of any of the representatives of the University.

Whether the game to-night results in a victory or a defeat for the team, they can rest content after a very successful season. They are players who play for the love of the game, and not for the plaudits of the crowd. With a huge crowd out to see them, as will be the case to-night, they will give as good an exhibition as at their regular league games, when very often they were watched by only a handful of spectators.

THE FINAL LAP.

The undergraduate activities of the session have practically come to an end, and there remains only the occasional dinner or farewell meeting to mark the end of the season as far as the various clubs and organizations are concerned. The students are all pretty well convinced that the time has come when their time must be devoted almost entirely to their studies, in an effort to successfully pass through the period of examinations.

It is not necessary to counsel the students that a great amount of work is necessary to accomplish the desired end in view, as there are very few who will not join in the final rush to acquire whatever knowledge they can in the short period available. Rather would we suggest to many of the men that they should not study so much. In the final rush, many of the men forget that they are living a very abnormal life in devoting all of their time to the task of acquiring knowledge. After two or three weeks of hard work, with little sleep and no recreation, the men have acquired quite a large store of information, but are in no condition to do themselves justice when writing their examinations. If they would divide their work more evenly and allow for some recreation, they might make a much better showing when the final tests come.

SMOKER FOR MEN FROM TOWNSHIPS

On Wednesday Night, at 8 O'clock, in the Union.

On Wednesday, March 15th at 8 p.m., the club will hold its last meeting of the year in the form of a Smoker. Sir Arthur Currie, a member of the club, and the patrons, A. J. Brown, K.C., and J. T. Hackett, K.C., will be the speakers of the evening.

This item of the programme alone ought to be a "drawing-card" for many, who wish to hear the farewell messages of these prominent men to this year's members of the Club.

The next item of importance will be the election of officers for the ensuing year. This ought to hold first place in every E. T. man's heart. It is the duty of each member to see that the right man is elected to the right office as the future success of the club depends upon the executive. If a member is convinced that a certain man would be an able office bearer, then it is his duty and of great importance to the club as a whole that he should attend this meeting and see that the man is nominated. If any chap cannot afford to spend the entire evening at the smoker, at least he should come early and vote.

The third item of the programme will be some French-Canadian monologues by Caron. He needs no further introduction, as all those who were at the first smoker, know of his ability and can well enjoy his habitant talk. The fourth item will be thirty minutes of moving pictures. One of the very latest comedies, entitled "Robinson Crusoe" will be shown on the screen. It is guaranteed to be one of the funniest pictures of the year.

FIRST INTER-CLASS DEBATE HELD TODAY

This afternoon, at four o'clock, in room 105 of the Arts Building, the first inter-class debate of the year will be held between Arts '23 and Commerce '23. The movement has been under way for a considerable time, and it is stated that the debates have been very carefully prepared. After a lengthy deliberation it was decided to choose the following subject for debate: Resolved that Latin and Greek form an essential part of a University education.

Wells and LeMessurier, of Arts '23, are upholding the affirmative, and they are the best that the class can provide, for they were chosen by the process of elimination. Their opponents will be Mitchell and Winslow, of Commerce '23, and if all reports are true, these men will have some first class arguments. It is hoped that all those who are interested in inter-class and inter-faculty debating at McGill will attend.

Dr. Cyrus Macmillan and Prof. Latham, both of the Department of English, have kindly consented to act as judges. Amaron, of Arts '23, will act as chairman.

Last, but not least, will be the refreshments. They will be of the Epicurean order, so each man undoubtedly will try to outdo the other fellow—as far as "Capacity" is concerned. Smokes of all kinds, from the clay pipe to the Benson and Hedges cigar, will be passed around during the evening. With the programme outlined in detail, as has been done, and the invitations which have been sent to many, it is hoped that there will be a record attendance in the Training Table Room of the Union, at 8 p.m., on Wednesday.

All E. T. men are invited, and are expected to be there on Wednesday evening.

NOTICES

ELECTIONS TO BE HELD ON FRIDAY

Miss Murray Elected Vice-president by Acclamation.

As election time is drawing near, a meeting of the R.V.C. Undergraduate Society was held yesterday. The chief business was the reading of the nominations for President, Vice-President and Secretary-Treasurer for next year. The following girls have been nominated for these offices:

President—Miss Zerada Slack, Miss Lorna Kerr.

Vice-President—Miss Phyllis Murray.

Secretary-Treasurer—Miss Frances McMaster, Miss Leila Argue.

It was decided at the meeting that the elections should take place on Friday from 9 o'clock till 6 o'clock. The following were appointed from the various years to act as scrutineers:

4th Year—Miss W. Malpoun, Miss V. Foley.

3rd Year—Miss G. McEwan, Miss M. Dolbic.

2nd Year—Miss D. Sangster, Miss M. Pennington.

1st Year—Miss E. Longworth, Miss M. Sangster.

Things are now progressing rapidly for the Gym. Demonstration. The tickets are now in the hands of the members of the Business and Ticket Committee. As there is sure to be a rush for tickets at the last minute, the best thing to do is to get a supply now so that no one will be disappointed.

There will be another meeting of the Society a week on Thursday. The constitution has been thoroughly revised, and many necessary changes have been made. All that is needed now is that very illusive "quorum" to pass it, so it is sincerely hoped that everyone will be present on that day.

HISTORICAL CLUB.

The last regular meeting of the Historical Club prior to the open meeting at the end of this month will be held in Strathcona Hall on Wednesday evening, March 15th. Papers on The Medaevil and Canadian Universities will be read by H. Cousins and F. H. Walter.

LOST.

Small gold pin with monogram "D. J. H." If anyone is fortunate enough to find it, would they please leave it with the Hall Porter of the R.V.C. its recovery will be greatly appreciated.

There will be a meeting of the Lit. on Thursday afternoon at 5.15 p.m. in the lounge room of the Union. The principal business of the meeting will be the election of officers, and discussion of next year's programme.

FRENCH PLAYLETS GIVEN SATURDAY

Invitations Being Issued to a Number of Citizens.

Following close on the announcement published in yesterday's Daily to the effect that three French playlets would be presented in about a fortnight's time, comes the news that it will be necessary to advance the date by a full week, as it will be impossible to secure the Convocation Hall at the Royal Victoria College during the whole of next week. Consequently the performance will be given this Saturday, March 18th.

As announced yesterday, there will be three short plays in all: "Les Coiteux de Medoc," by Courteline; "La Joie Fait Peur," by St. Marc Girardin and "Le Commissaire est Bon Enfant" by Courteline.

Invitations will be sent out this morning from the Secretary's office to a representative number of those citizens who have always been interested in French Theatricals at McGill. In the meantime the actresses and actors are toiling overtime in order to overcome the unexpected handicap occasioned by the change of date.

ONE ACCLAMATION IN LAW UNDERGRAD

Annual Election of Society on Wednesday, March 22.

The nominations for the various offices of the Law Undergraduates' Society closed last evening, with two candidates for each position, with the exception of that of Secretary, Miss Dorothy Heneker being elected by acclamation.

The elections will take place on expected that all Law students will Wednesday, March 22nd, and it is exercise his or her franchise and make the elections as successful as in the past.

The following are the nominees for the various offices:—

For President—W. F. Macklaier, J. Senecal.

For Vice-President—A. J. Carroll, J. Robinson.

Secretary—Miss Dorothy Heneker (acclamation.)

For Treasurer—F. Chauvin, H. Echenberg.

THE MEETING OF ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

H. A. Peacock, N. W. Philpotts, G. Grassick, J. P. Puddicombs, H. Dreger, C. W. Fullerton, R. Whicklen, J. Gemeroy, N. Miller, H. Caselman.

The executive unanimously passed a vote of thanks to R. B. Henry President of the Indoor Baseball Club, and C. F. Elderkin, Class Hockey Manager, for their untiring efforts in the promotion and management of inter-mural competition in their respective branches of athletics.

A recommendation was also made to the Students' Council, that these men be presented with rings, signifying the gratitude of the student body for their unsurpassed efforts in placing inter-class athletics on such a strong basis at McGill.

The question of a lacrosse game, between a McGill team and a combined team of Oxford and Cambridge students, was dealt with by the executive.

A decision was reached that, provided sufficient material could be obtained to place a strong representative team in the field, the Athletic Association would recommend the staging of such a contest.

A meeting of lacrosse enthusiasts has been called for Friday, March 17, and final decision will be based on the result of this meeting, notice of which appears elsewhere in the columns of to-day's Daily.

As a result of a meeting held in Toronto it has been decided to organize an Intercollegiate Indoor Baseball Tournament.

In view of the great interest displayed in this sport at McGill during the past two seasons, the executive felt justified in recommending to the Students' Council that a team be sent from McGill next year to the Intercollegiate Indoor Baseball Tournament, which will probably be held at Queens.

Recommendations were made to the Students' Council to grant the following appropriations to the clubs mentioned.

$24 to the Swimming and Polo Club to cover expenses of shields and crests, due to the inability of the intercollegiate union to provide them.

$50 to the Indoor Baseball Club for general expenses.

This club, despite its great activities, has been very economical, its original budget of $100 proving sufficient for the expenses incurred.

$15 to the Snowshoe Club for expenses incurred during the Dartmouth and McGill carnivals.

TOO FREE.

"How did you like my newest poem?" inquired the versificationist. "What was it about?" "Why, didn't you read it?" "Sure. That's what aroused my curiosity."

PEPYS AT MCGILL

Monday, March 13th.—Up and to carroll on the Campus to the accompaniment of the twittering of the divers small fowl that do now begin to infest the boughs of the trees. At the College this day one spoke with me at some length about a protest writ by someone in the news-sheet of these colleges concerning the false blazoning of our arms, and truly I think there can be no more important matter anywhere than this one, and whether I be but a Freshman or no I do purpose to bring it up for appraisement at the Grand Meeting of the Students' Guild, which they will hold two days hence for to impose sable charges upon a field of gules and suchlike salvagenesse appertains not to men of rank and learning. This night with certain of my fellows to drink of a strange but pleasing brew of the Americans, which they do call a Jonathan Collins or some such thing. Thence very sleepy and in a pleasing glow to bed.

QUEEN'S MAY WITHDRAW MANY OF THEIR TEAMS FROM INTERCOLLEGIATE

Consider Abandoning All Branches of Intercollegiate Athletics with the Exception of Hockey and Football — Would Leave Toronto and McGill as Only Competitors in Many Branches of Athletics.

The Athletic Board of Control at Queen's University is seriously considering the withdrawal of their teams from the majority of the Intercollegiate Unions. According to the suggested plans they would leave their teams only in the hockey and football leagues, and enter into entirely local competitions as far as the other branches of athletics were concerned.

The difficulty in financing the large number of trips made by their teams seems to be the main obstacle to the Queens men. With a comparatively small number of people from whom to draw their attendance at the competitions they are unable to secure large gate receipts, and thereby pay the expenses incidental to the maintenance of several teams.

A mass meeting of the Queen's students was held last week to consider the wisest course for them to follow, and they very seriously discussed the suggestion of withdrawing their teams. Professor Manly Baker, speaking for the Queens Athletic Board of Control, was the first one to advance the plan, although he stated that he did not like the idea. However, in common with many of the others in charge of the Kingston University's

JUNIORS LEAVE FOR TORONTO

Hockeyists to Compete for John Ross Robertson Trophy.

The McGill Junior hockey team left last evening for Toronto, where they will go up against the Aura Lees to decide the supremacy of the Eastern Canadian hockey world. By virtue of their victory over Lower Canada College on Saturday, whom they defeated four to nil, they earned the right to represent Quebec in the Ontario series.

The outcome of the game tonight will settle whether or not Ontario is to retain possession of the John Ross Memorial Cup. Last year Toronto Canoe Club represented Ontario and defeated Quebec's representatives quite handsly. This year the condition and speedy skating of the McGill forwards, coupled with their stonewall defence, should give the Aura Lee contenders a very interesting tussle before the final issue is decided.

Previous to the departure of the team, an agreement had been reached with the President of the C.A.H.A., whereby it was determined that, in the event of the Red and White sextette coming out on top, they would be under no obligation to proceed westward. This course was taken to eliminate any difficulty that might arise through the impossibility of the McGill team proceeding to Winnipeg, due to the inadvisability of missing lectures for such a period as would be necessary for the trip.

The teams line up as follows:

FINAL MEETING OF MANDOLIN-BANJO CLUB

To-night the Mandolin and Banjo Club will come together as a club for the last time this season. The annual dinner of the Club will be held in the Union at 7.15 sharp, and will close the year's activities. These have been many and strenuous, and the members are to be congratulated on the way in

MCGILL MEN BOX BEFORE HUGE CROWD

International Aspect Drew Many People.

FOUR NOCKOUTS.

Canadian Intercollegiate Boxers' Invasion Created Interest.

The complete report of the boxing meet at Annapolis has just arrived, and, inasmuch as an accurate and complete record of the event is of interest to the majority of the students, it is being published as written by the referee in the current issue of the Philadelphia Ledger:

The Blue and Gold of the Navy fluttered triumphantly in the breeze at the close of the meet with a picked team of Canadian intercollegiate boxers here to-day.

Navy ringmen came through with victories in five of the seven bouts. It appeared as if the entire regiment of midshipmen was crowded into the gymnasium, and Commandant Kurtz and staff officers viewed the bouts. The international aspect of the competition doubtless was the magnet which attracted the crowd, and once in the gymnasium the natty uniforms of the middies and the brilliant attire of their feminine companions blended into a colorful scene.

Nothing Lacking.

There was nothing lacking to lend glamour to the occasion; four knockouts serving to thrill the onlookers. Three of these knockout victories went to Navy, and a Canadian boxer applied the finishing punch to his middle opponent in the second contest.

There were four Canadian intercollegiate champions on the visiting team and two of them were stopped by Navy boxers. The other two Dominion title-holders won their bouts, although one of the contests necessitated an extra round before a decision was reached.

The bout which required an extra round to decide was between Frank Zotti, captain of the Navy team, and Black, of Toronto, in the 160-pound class. It was an extremely close tussle, the Canadian flashing a neat attack in the third round that brought about a disagreement between the judges.

The referee ordered an extra round and Black, through the expert use of a stiff left jab, gained the verdict. Zotti, however, battled back gamely. He appeared a trifle winded from the fast going, though, and could not get his defense working properly against Black's straight left.

Formidable Array.

It certainly was a formidable aggregation that Canada sent forth to battle the Navy boxers. Three colleges of the Dominion were represented, and the athletes certainly boxed valiantly to uphold the intercollegiate fistic prestige of their native land.

Bill Latta, the diminutive Navy boxer, started off auspiciously for his team by stopping Holmes, of Queens, in the second round of the bout in the 115-lb. class.

Holmes was felled by a right-hand swing in the first round, and the bell rang while he was on the floor. Revived by the minutes rest, he made a vigorous charge in the second period. One of Latta's accurately placed swings sent his opponent down again, and the referee halted the contest.

Commander Howard, Navy athletic officer, was a ringside spectator. The commander announced to the officials that he desired the visiting team to have every chance, but when a Navy man had been felled twice he wanted to have a contest stopped.

Bout Stopped.

The commander's order was obeyed in the case of W. J. Sebald, the 125-pound Navy entry. Sebald just bristled battle, but he slowed up against a terrific puncher in Gray, of Toronto, the Canadian intercollegiate feather-weight champion.

With terrific force behind the ten-ounce gloves, Gray dropped Sebald twice in the second round. The bell rang just as the Navy man went down the second time. In the third Sebald went down again and the bout was stopped.

Excitement was running high. The count was even, and made so by two knockouts. Then Jerry O'Donnell came through for Navy in the 135-pound class.

Canada entered a strong gloveman against O'Donnell. He was Shackell, of McGill. For two rounds these two put on a hurricane affair. Had the close of the bout come after the second session it would have been hard for the judges to pick a winner. Then O'Donnell got his choice wallop working. Shackell, a stocky, curly-haired youngster, ran straight into one of O'Donnell's right-hand leads.

The McGill boxer went down with great suddenness. It was a big surprise to him, but he took it good-naturedly.

Gaining his feet he looked toward O'Donnell and flashing a bright smile said, "That was a pretty punch." A few seconds later Shackell took another swing on the jaw and the referee ordered his seconds to take him to his corner.

Next came Brewer, of McGill, to try to stem the Navy rush. Brewer is the 145-pound intercollegiate champion of Canada, and aside from that he has an appearance that captivated the onlookers as soon as they caught sight of him marching to the ring.

Brewer's bright and shining bald dome, fringed with the reddest of red hair, made a big hit. With the crowd heartily with him, Brewer started off like a sure winner.

But Brewer met a hard-hitting boxer in W. D. Leach, a new man on the Navy team, who was making his first appearance in competition.

Leach Packs Wallop.

Leach certainly carried a regular berth on the Navy boxing team. After he had withstood Brewer's determined rushes in the first round Leach uncorked a stiff wallop in the second that spilled Brewer on the floor. The bell rang just at this juncture, and with a wide grin Brewer scrambled to his feet and made for his corner.

Once more Brewer went down in the third. He had started to climb to his feet, but in his groggy condition he was in no shape to continue and the referee intervened.

Then followed the battle between Frank Zotti, of the Navy, and Black, of Toronto, in the 160-pound class. Rarely do two such big college boxers show such a knowledge of the scientific side of the game as these two. It looked as if Zotti might have had the edge for the first two rounds, but his Toronto opponent came through with a great burst of speed in the third session. So close was the tilting that, as before mentioned, the judges disagreed, and as the issue is decided on what happens in the extra round in a case like this, the victory surely belonged to Black.

Oregon Wins.

Mickey Oregon, the husky Navy 175-pounder, has the physique to deliver no end of knockouts, but Mickey is too wise to go in for heavy wallowing when he can win by clever boxing. This he proved when he outboxed McMalion, of Toronto, and gained the judges' decision at the end of three rounds.

Canada sent down a regular boxing Adonis to oppose B. O. Matthews, of Navy, in the heavyweight class. Tall ed like a certain winner when he stepped into the ring, but those in the and bond, McMeans, of McGill, look-crowd who picked the Stalwart Canadian to win reckoned without the hard punching powers of Matthews.

McMeans, possessing a rangy left, managed to keep away from "Matty" in the opening session. The Middy, however, relentlessly kept after his taller opponent and before the round closed he managed to slip a couple of hard wallops past McMeans' guard.

Right Drops McMeans.

"Matty" gained a real opening in the second period, and his right shot over to send the Canadian intercollegiate heavyweight champion to the floor. McMeans took some heavy bombardments before the canto closed, but came out to make real battle of it in the third. This he did by jabbing with his long left, but the Middy's big lead in the first two rounds brought him the judges' verdict.

SUMMER JOBS FOR SCIENCE STUDENTS

Discuss Formation of Employment Agency

The formation of a Summer Employment agency for students in the Faculty of Applied Science was discussed last night at a meeting of the Undergraduate Society held in Room 33, Engineering Building. It was suggested that one man should be given charge of the agency for the months of April, and May and should be paid $75.00 in April and $100 in May. His duties would be to investigate conditions and obtain Summer employment for students in the Faculty. A committee, consisting of the Vice-Presidents of the four years was formed to look into the matter.

Dean Adams was unanimously elected Honorary President of the Society. Roy MacLaren, '23, was elected as Science Representative on the Rugby Club, and Lew Cox was elected as manager of the Science Football Club.

The Society voted the sum of $50.00 to be given as prizes for Summer essays in the fourth year.

It was also resolved that next year the Science Banquet should be held earlier in the season in order that the press of academic work might not deter so many students from attending this function.

The meet furnished another instance of the sportsmanlike manner in which intercollegiate boxing is being conducted. The Canadians took their defeats with good grace and smiled happily under the salvos of cheers which greeted them as they walked from the ring.

Complete silence prevailed during the course of each round. But once the session was over the onlookers made the rafters ring with cheers.

The officials were: Referee, Frank McCracken, of Philadelphia; judges, Edward Forbes, Brooklyn, and Emanuel Daniels, Baltimore; timekeeper, "Doc" Dougherty.

GLEE CLUB READY FOR FIRST CONCERT

Many Prominent Names on Subscribers' List.

On Tuesday next the new McGill Glee Club will hold its opening concert in the R.V.C. The club has been dormant for some years, and this is the first concert it has given since 1912.

That it is meeting with the support of the influential is evident from the fact that the rapidly increasing list of ticket purchasers contains the following names:—

Mr. E. W. Beatty, Sr Arthur Currie, Mr. W. M. Birks, Miss Hurlbutt, Dean Laing, Dr. H. C. Perrin, Lt.-Col. James Cooper, Messrs. J. W. Jenkins, Fraser S. Keith and J. M. R. Fairbairn.

A new era of music has started at McGill, in which the Club is taking an active part. Next Tuesday the singers will be assisted by the Students' Orchestra, another institution which deserves all the support possible, and the combination of the two should be the best thing in the way of real music that McGill has heard for a long time.

Amongst other numbers, the Glee Club will render:

The Keys of Heaven, John Peel, Boot and Saddle, A Franklyn Dogge, Annie Laurie and the Viking Song. The orchestra will play the accompaniment of the last-named, besides giving some selections of their own.

The men have been turning out regularly two nights a week, which is no joke when exams are looming on the horizon, and their efforts have not been in vain.

A good crowd is expected at the R.V.C., a week from to-night—there is nothing like music to make a weary student forget all his troubles and approaching exams. To quote Shakespeare in the Taming of the Shrew:—

MISSIONS POPULAR WITH WESLEYANS

Dickens' Recital Being Given To-night to Aid Funds.

A great deal of interest is being evinced by Wesleyan and other local Theological students, in the Dickens' Recital which is being given to-night at 8 o'clock, in Ferrier Hall, by Rev. Allworth Eardley, of Douglas Methodist Church. The speaker is being assisted by two talented local artists, Mrs. Homer Vipond, as vocalist, and Miss Marjorie Ramsey as violinist, while Principal Smyth will preside. It is expected that a goodly number of professors as well as students will be present, and the students of the entire University are earnestly invited to attend.

A collection will be taken in aid of a fund to raise $500 to send Rev. J. P. DePinto, B.D., to the Island of Ceylon, where he hopes to make arrangements to travel to the Maldivian Islands in the interests of Christian Missions.

Mr. DePinto is very well known and highly respected locally, both by the students of the Co-operating Colleges and by the members of various Montreal Methodist Churches. So far a very generous response has been made to the first call for funds, and the prospects of an adequate amount of money to meet the present needs of the undertaking are very promising.

To further the interests of Missions among the men at the Wesleyan, a committee was recently formed to organize a Missionary Department in connection with the Students Society of the College.

Preposterous ass, that never read so far,
To know the cause why music was ordain'd.
Was it not to refresh the mind of man,
After his studies or his usual pain?

CUP AWAITS SIXTEEN YEARS FOR CLAIMANT

There has been a cup waiting for someone at the Union for sixteen years, and no one has come to claim it as yet. Reposing among the trophies in the lounge room of the building, its inscription proclaims to everyone who chances to read it that it is awaiting its rightful owner, but apparently the proper claimant to the cup has never heard of it.

So long has it been since the cup was placed there in trust for presentation to the person for whom it was intended, that it would be a matter of some difficulty to identify the person to whom it belongs. Only a long investigation could sort out the various claimants to it if they put forward their claims and it is doubtful if it will be attempted.

The history of the cup goes back to 1906, when the graduating class in Arts decided to leave something behind them a token of their years in the university. The happy thought struck one of the brainy individuals of that class of leaving a baby stein to be presented to the first baby to be born to a member of Arts '06. The stein was bought and suitably engraved with a space left for the name of the owner when he or she put forward a claim to the cup.

However, the stein still remains in the trophy cupboard awaiting the rush of claimants that never came. Various reasons have been advanced for the failure of the class members to come forward and present their credentials in support of their request for the cup.

The most probable reason seems to be that the father of the lucky owner of the stein did not come forward at first through bashfulness, and later forgot about the trophy. Other opinions are to the effect that each of the members of the class thought that the trophy had been won by some one else, and so failed to mention the arrival of the first '06 baby.

If the cup remains in its present place for a few more years it may meet the eye of some wandering student who is attending the university, and who will find on investigation that he has been entitled to a trophy for a great many years but, through the oversight of a busy father, has never been told of the fact. It is certain that there must be some descendants of the class wandering around the country, but the difficulty is in grading them according to their ages.

adequate, while the minor roles were well filled.

The prologue entitled "A Night in a Mexican Cantina" was one of the most graceful and elaborate that Nell Quill and the Capitol Ballet have yet staged. In addition to the dancers, a quartette and a large ensemble are responsible for some very tuneful numbers.

The Capitol Orchestra, under the leadership of J. J. Shea, present a descriptive fantastic overture, which is full of color, and admirably appropriate as the prologue to the feature picture.

The programme is completed by the Capitol News, a comedy having been omitted this week on account of the length of "Fool's Paradise."

ORPHEUM.

The Orpheum players are presenting this week, in keeping with the season, a four-act comedy entitled "Kathleen Mavourneen." The old question comes up again whether a girl should marry for riches or for love. Kathleen, the heroine of the play, is saved from making the wrong step in marriage by a dream. The curtain falls at the end of the first act with Kathleen asleep by the fire-side, and the following two acts show what she dreamt. Her dream includes hold-ups and murders, and the play for a time touches on the dramatic and tragic side of life, although primarily a comedy.

Miss Knight, the leading lady, as Kathleen Mavourneen, was accorded an enthusiastic reception when she first appeared on the stage. Her part was very well taken, as also was that of Terry, the leading man. Indeed, the manner in which these two, and several others imitated the brogue, would lead one to think that the players were sons and daughters of "Old Ireland."

The other members of the cast took their parts well, and there was none of the first performance awkwardness which is sometimes noticed in such plays. The orchestra, under G. Romano, played a number of old Irish songs between the acts.

THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE S.C.A. HELD

Dewey, Dr. F. D. Adams, Mr. J. P. Anglin, E. C. Amaron, R. L. Hamilton.

The reports of the General Secretary, Mr. MacKay, was then read. Mr. MacKay dwelt on some phases of the work not touched before, of a rather personal and vital nature. He is very optimistic for the future outlook, however, and it is to be hoped that he will receive the support of the members. A word should be said about the financial report, which was very encouraging. The budget was over $17,000. Last year at this time there was a deficit of $1,400, which has now been reduced to $32.00. This is a very creditable showing, and the credit is largely due to the hard work and good management of Mr. MacKay.

A report was read from the Mission Committee by S. R. Collins, who also outlined the relationship between the S.C.A. and the Student Volunteers. He introduced a motion to sever the connection between these two organizations. Notice of the coming summer conference was given by the president, and after a vote of thanks to the retiring officers had been moved, the meeting was adjourned.

KING COOK CORONATION TOMORROW

Every Promise of Fine Performance.

MED. SOPHS. READY.

Have Worked Hard for Tomorrow Night

To-morrow night, the Medical Building will be the scene of the last, and probably the biggest function connected with the Medical Faculty during the current year.

The coronation of King Cook is a yearly affair of much moment, and is accompanied by a tremendous amount of pomp and grandeur. Expectations run high that this year the ceremony will surpass all previous events, and set a standard which will in itself impose a terrific task upon future years, who are expected to maintain and foster this custom.

There are few if any traditions which may be said to be peculiar alone to any particular faculty here at McGill, and it is a matter of much pride to all Medical students and to the second year students in particular, that this outstanding one is intimately and essentially associated with the Faculty of Medicine.

College traditions are a true manifestation of college spirit if properly maintained, and the lot befalls the Sophomore class in Medicine every year to celebrate their privilege of perpetuating this, perhaps the only student tradition that McGill can boast, by preparing an elaborate and extravagant festivity for the benefit of all other Medical students at the University.

As is the case with all other customs of this nature, we find the Cook Coronation one with a somewhat obscure past and a very vague and unchronicled origin, concerning the exact details of its birth into the University.

We know, however, that for this most interesting perennial celebration we may direct our thanks to the Medical students of many years past. These men did not have the opportunity of pursuing their medical studies with the ease and many advantages that the modern student of Medicine has the privilege of enjoying. Perhaps the most awkward disadvantage imposed upon the men in the year 1849 or thereabouts, was the necessity of robbing graves for the purpose of obtaining dissecting material—that all important factor in the education of a medical man. For, be it understood, the dissection of human bodies for the purpose of scientific enlightenment was in those days considered to be sacrilegious and detrimental to morals—the hypocrisy of the age overcame the obvious claim of subsequent human benefit to be derived from this most "awful" practice.

As a result of this unreasonable hypocrisy at the time it was necessary that the practice of dissection and "body snatching" be carried out with the utmost secrecy by the Med. students. At that time one Cook presided over the Physic Portals—that is, he occupied the position filled by the venerable Tobin of to-day—and he was perhaps the best friend that the "snatchers" possessed. He maintained their secrets with the utmost jealousy, and nobly aided them in their dissection in the basement of what was then the Medical Building.

In recognition of the great assistance rendered them by Cook, the students made suitable presentation to him every Yuletide for no small number of years.

As time wore on the public became aware of the necessity of this evil of dissection in order that medical science might progress the more rapidly, and thus they became more tolerant towards the commandeering of subjects for dissection and began to appreciate that a concrete advantage was to be derived through this practice. Consequently the cloak of secrecy was to a great extent lifted by the Medical students, but they nevertheless continued to do honor to Cook. By this time they found themselves able to make this yearly celebration a public affair, and it therefore became correspondingly more pretentious, taking the form of an immense parade through the city and a subsequent coronation of King Cook I. on Phillips Square.

The ceremony, as years passed by, assumed many and varied forms, until finally it has to-day evolved itself into an elaborate parade to be followed by an elaborate play, together with the coronation of the reigning King Cook. Thus the culmination of this essentially medical tradition has come to be regarded as an affair of very serious moment by all Medical Sophomores whereby they can perpetuate this tradition and at the same time pay what small tribute they can to the banquet given by the Freshmen.

This year's Sophomore class have gone to unlimited trouble to make a success of their task, and in consequence all those who attend to-morrow night have in store a rare treat in the form of a very pretentious and ostentatious burlesque performance.

The Glee Club of Princeton University has been offered a three weeks' engagement to tour the Canal Zone.

BOOSTERS' MEETING WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Commercial Society to Meet in Union at 8.15 P.M.

On Wednesday evening, at 8.15, in the Union, the members of the Commercial Society will hold their annual Boosters' Meeting, and elect their officers for the coming year.

The idea of this Boosters' Meeting is to "boost" the course by making suggestions for improvements; and by talking over the course in this manner the Department heads are able to find out what the School of Commerce in the Dominion and the Commercial Society plays its part in keeping up the high standard.

This meeting is the culmination of the meetings of the year, and should be of greatest interest to the students because it is held in their interests. The only speakers will be the undergraduates themselves, but they should prove extremely interesting. The refreshments will also be "interesting."

REAL STORMS ARE PRODUCED IN LAB.

Scientist Hurls Thunder Bolts at Will

Schneetady. — Schneetady has a modern Jove who sits on his throne in a laboratory of the General Electric Company and hurls thunderbolts at will. He is Dr. Charles P. Steinmetz, electrical wizard, who has announced that he had succeeded in producing and controlling an indoor thunderstorm, with all the characteristics of its natural brother except the thunder clouds.

At a demonstration of his "lightning generator" last week, the familiar forked tongues flashed through the laboratory with a deafening crash, splintered a large block of wood, hurling the fragments 25 feet, and ripped a miniature tree from tip to base.

The bolt carried the energy of 1,000,000 horse power—about one five-hundredth of the energy of a natural lightning bolt. Dr. Steinmetz estimates—and lasted for the one hundred thousandth part of a second.

Dr. Steinmetz hopes his apparatus will contribute largely to the development of lightning arresters, as it provides an opportunity for the study at close range of the phenomenon that Benjamin Franklin began to investigate years ago with his kite, string and key.

His experiments have convinced him there is little likelihood of man's realizing his dream of harnessing thunderbolts and making them work. Despite their tremendous energy, he says, their life is so short that, harnessed, they would be worth little.

"In our lightning generator," he said, "we get a discharge of 10,000 amperes at over 100,000 volts; that is, a power of over 1,000,000 horse power, lasting for a hundred-thousandth part of a second. This gives us the explosive, tearing and shattering effect of real lightning, so that, for instance, a piece of small tree exposed to the discharge is mechanically torn to pieces. A piece of wire struck by the flash vanishes in dust."

"The difference between lightning energy and ordinary electric current is similar to that between a pound of dynamite and a pint of gasoline. The pint of gasoline contains more energy and can do more work than the pound of dynamite, but the pint of gasoline gives off its energy slowly at a moderate rate of power, while the pound of dynamite gives off its energy explosively, all at once, at an enormous rate of power, and thereby locally tears and destroys."

The inspiration to produce artificial lightning came to Dr. Steinmetz two years ago, when he arrived at his summer camp on the Mohawk River to find that the heavenly visitor had preceded him by a few hours and left the camp in sad disarray.

Dr. Steinmetz said he could cut loose an artificial lightning bolt that would do as much damage as did the one which assailed his camp. But he is content with producing one five-hundredth as much "kick." Producing the larger bolt would involve great expense and the bolt would be too dangerous to observe at close quarters.

Dr. Steinmetz's generator consists essentially of a high voltage condenser in the form of 200 glass plates. These are arranged in two rows, in groups of fifty, and are capable of holding 120,000 volts of electricity.

One end of the double row of condensers corresponds to the thunder cloud in the sky, in which an electric current is gradually stored up and increased by the conglomeration of the rain drops, as Dr. Steinmetz has shown. The other end of the condenser plates corresponds to the earth.

When the tension of the stored electric energy becomes greater than the generator will hold the discharge takes place. The lightning flash is seen, the thunder rolls—represented by a loud snapping sound—and the bolt strikes.

He himself admits that it is practically impossible for man to harness thunderbolts and make them work. Their duration is too brief, and though their energy is tremendous while they last, it is impossible to apply that energy to anything. Possibly some natural scientist will try to make a new weapon of war out of thunderbolts, so imitating the ancient gods, but it is fervently to be hoped that Mr. Steinmetz will patent his invention in such a way that it cannot be used for such hurtful ends.

Courses in play production are offered in 146 universities and colleges of the United States. Well equipped theatres are possessed by 17 of the schools, and 27 more have outdoor Greek theatres.
